

Minister hails Lancashire business as it taps government scheme to Kickstart major growth plans

Fast-growing family business, NORI HR & Employment Law in Accrington, Lancashire, has taken on the first of 30 planned new recruits through the government's Kickstart scheme to aid its continued expansion.

So far, fifteen young people from across Lancashire and Northern England, aged 19 to 24, have joined in the role of trainee Business Development Managers.

Jason Govindji-Bruce, joint managing director at NORI HR & Employment Law, said:

"We've grown our HR consultancy very rapidly in the last year, despite the global pandemic, and have ambitious plans to now scale it even more significantly

"Our growth plans depend on having a dedicated team of Business Development Managers connecting us with local businesses in the places where they live.

"The Kickstart programme has enabled us to bring forward our investment in these new roles whilst also providing quality jobs for young people at risk of long-term unemployment as a result of Covid-19. We're really pleased to have been able to welcome the first of these new colleagues into our family business."

The constituency MP for Hyndburn, Sara Britcliffe, met the new recruits recently as they were being inducted. She said:

"It's fab to see a local Hyndburn business like NORI HR using the Kickstart scheme to boost its growth and give out-of-work young people the chance of an exciting new career. This is exactly what we need to see if we're to build back better as we emerge from the shadow of Coronavirus."

Announced by Chancellor Rishi Sunak in July 2020, the Kickstart scheme is overseen by the Department for Work and Pensions.

Minister for Employment, Mims Davies MP added:

"It's fantastic to see NORI HR & Employment Law become a Kickstart employer, giving young jobseekers in Accrington a vital chance to get on the jobs ladder.

"Successful applicants will gain vital work experience, build a key network of contacts and learn the value of earning a wage for themselves.

“Businesses across every sector, including human resources and legal services are getting involved and taking up the opportunity to nurture and support the next generation of workers, with the added benefit that all Kickstart placements are fully-funded by the government for the first six months.”
